Reorganization of Government Urged in Priddy Speech

Russellville Candidate Also Comments on "Turn-back" Fund

FAIR-SIZED CROWD

Road Show Offers Hard Competition for Gubernatorial Candidate

Judge A. B. Priddy, of Russellville, candidate for governor, addressed a medium-sized crowd in Hope city hall at 8 o'clock Monday night, competing with the opening performance of a road show in another part of the city. He was introduced by Mayor John Vesey.

The Russellville man made a good impression on his first appearance in this county. He is a large, well-built man, a circuit judge in his home community, and he spoke frankly on his aims and purposes in making the race for governor. Judge Priddy first attracted state-wide attention as manager of Brooks Hays' campaign for governor, and Mr. Hays in turn is managing the present campaign of Judge Priddy.

Judge Priddy analyzed the affairs of the State Highway Department, and said early in his address that while the county judges had formed an association and gotten an additional tax passed by the legislature to build farm-to-market roads, the highway department had squandered its share of the gasoline tax and then wanted to take away the judge's share.

Favors Reorganization
The Russellville man said he favors reorganization of the state government through the return of authority to the people through their elected officers and the abolition of "political business and commissions, many of whose functions overlap causing unnecessary expenditure of public funds."

Judge Priddy promises an impartial survey of the school problem by the most able men and women he is able to command and said that no half-baked theories will be followed in handling this perplexing problem. He pledged completion of the state trunk line highways at the earliest possible date, the building of as many new roads as possible, maintenance of farm-to-market roads and guarantee of county turnback money to the county judges for road purposes.

Advocating a strengthening of the state banking laws and their proper enforcement for the protection of depositors, Judge Priddy said he favors a law limiting the amount a bank may loan to any individual, firm or corporation to 10 per cent of the actual paid in capital and certified surplus.

Harmony to Hold Home Coming 19th

Seventh Annual Program Is Planned Next Sunday

The seventh annual homecoming celebration will be held at Harmony church, one mile north of Sutton, Sunday, June 19, it was announced Tuesday by the program committee.

A feature of the program will be a song by Tip Frank, reported to be the oldest living man in Nevada county. He will sing during the devotional exercises in the afternoon.

The program:
10:00 to 10:45—Young People's Society, directed by Chosen Garrett.
10:45 to 12:00—Devotional exercises, led by John White. Joe Fincher will direct the music.

12:00 to 1:00—Lunch on the ground.
1:00 to 3:00—Gospel singing, directed by Thurman May.

The public is invited to attend this homecoming celebration, and are requested to bring song books, and well filled lunch baskets.

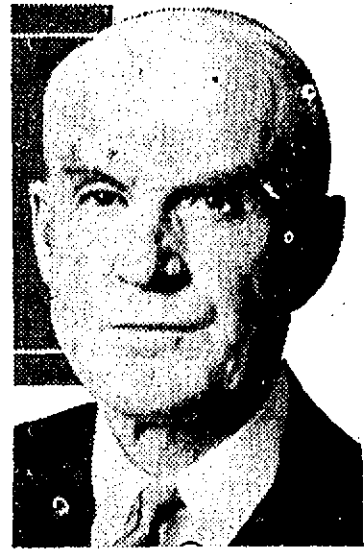

Patmos Will Hold Truck Meet Friday

H. M. Stephens to Meet Cantaloupe and Tomato Men at 4 P. M.

Cantaloupe and tomato growers of the Patmos district will hold a meeting with H. M. Stephens, widely known Blevins truck shipper, at Patmos Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, June 17 to make plans for packing and shipping this year's crop.

The Patmos meeting is expected to be attended from growers all over the south end of the county. Patmos sponsors of the meeting urge all growers to attend in view of the fact that successful movement of the crop depends upon the co-operation of the largest possible number of producers.

State Candidates To Attend Rally in Hope July 21st

State-Wide Rally Is Announced by Chamber of Commerce

FIRST TWO REPORT

Acceptance Is Received From Futrell and Walls, for Governor

A state-wide political rally which two candidates for governor have already consented to attend, will be held in Hope Thursday, July 21, under auspices of Hope Chamber of Commerce.

This was announced Tuesday by Joe R. Floyd, secretary-manager of the chamber.

The board of directors at its last meeting authorized Mr. Floyd to begin making arrangements for the rally, especially as to inviting state candidates more than a month in advance.

Mr. Floyd has acceptances from Chancellor J. M. Futrell, of Paragould, and Charles A. Walls, of Lonoke, candidates for governor; and an expression of regret from Dwight H. Blackwood, another gubernatorial candidate, whose itinerary is said to be completed.

Vincent M. Miles, of Fort Smith, first of the senatorial candidates to be heard from, is attending party conferences prior to the Democratic convention at Chicago, but his secretary wrote Mr. Floyd that Mr. Miles would reply immediately on his return home.

The Chamber of Commerce has not yet heard from the remainder of the 18 candidates for the senate and the governorship.

Complete arrangements for entertainment of a vast crowd will be made by a Chamber of Commerce committee organization, now in process of being formed.

Lawyer Held For Stabbing Mother

Prominent Birmingham Man May Be Charged With Murder

BIRMINGHAM.—(AP)—John R. Boyle, 37, widely known Birmingham attorney, was ordered held for investigation Tuesday in the slaying of his 35-year-old mother, Mrs. Jesse Boyle, on Shades mountain Monday.

Boyle, who told officers his mother was stabbed to death by a highwayman while they picked flowers on the mountainside, is in a hospital with half a dozen stab wounds but his condition is not serious.

Boyle was ordered held after money from his mother's bag, diamond rings from her fingers, and a quantity of chloroform were found in his car.

Hecht Resigns as Saenger Manager

Leaves Malco Service Saturday After Four Months' Stay

Elmer Hecht, manager of the Saenger theater, has resigned and will leave Hope Saturday night for Mobile, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. Hecht came here the middle of February from Pensacola, Fla., where Mr. Hecht was manager of a Paramount-Public theater. He joined the Malco Theaters, Inc., as manager of the Hope theater.

No announcement has been made by M. S. McCord, general manager of Malco, as to Mr. Hecht's successor in Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Hecht made many friends while in this city, and they expressed appreciation for their reception by Saenger patrons during the last four months.

Key-Noter Terms Hoover Brilliant

Senator Dickinson, Iowa, Declares His Re-Election Is "Most Dependable Means" of Restoring Country to Prosperity

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Entirely silent on the thorny prohibition issue Senator E. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, Tuesday called for the re-election of Herbert Hoover as a "dependable means" of restoring normal conditions.

His key-note address at the opening of the Republican national convention called moves by the president to meet the depression "brilliant."

Democrats were severely rapped, the Farm Board was defended, and the Republican party called the "undeviating friend of the farmer."

The Smoot-Hawley tariff act was described as a bulwark against cheap foreign products, and the national defense and foreign policies of the administration were praised.

Text of Key-Note Speech
Senator Dickinson said in part: His first act prevented a financial panic. Invoking the powers of the Federal Reserve Board, he prevented this catastrophe. Thus he cushioned the efforts of the debate in Wall Street which followed the greatest period of stock speculation the world had ever known.

With the knowledge that every nation is reeling in convulsion in the past has been attended by strikes, riots, bloodshed and death, President Hoover's next concern was to maintain social order.

To this end he summoned to the White House industrial leaders of the nation and obtained from them a promise to maintain existing wage scales as long as it was possible to do so.

On the same day leaders of organized labor, sitting around the same conference table, gave their pledge that there would be no industrial wage disturbances.

Had Herbert Hoover accomplished no more in this depression, he would have done more than all of the other presidents had done in the fourteen major economic dislocations which have gone before.

But our president planned a campaign to deal with the unprecedented situation in which the world found itself in the back wash of the greatest of wars.

With financial panic averted, with industrial peace assured, the chief executive moved rapidly to mitigate unemployment distress. However, no action of government

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The 2-billion-dollar relief program offered by senate Democrats was substituted Tuesday for the Garner plan by the senate banking committee.

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor Parnell set July 8 as the date for the execution of Louis McBride, Clark county negro convicted of murdering Will McClain, railroad section foreman.

DETROIT.—(AP)—Henry Ford believes the issues "now being stirred up at political conventions" mean nothing.

He thinks they will not have the slightest effect "on things we are all interested in today—economic recovery, jobs, and money in the pocket of the average man."

In an interview Tuesday he lauded the abilities of President Hoover and said he expected to see him re-elected "because he is the man best-fitted for the job."

Police said Jamison and Mrs. Noble were accessed by Noble as they left a night club early Tuesday morning and Noble struck the sergeant with a club, whereupon Jamison shot him.

Noble's condition is serious. He came here from Little Rock several years ago.

MEMPHIS.—(AP)—Detective Sergeant David Jamison, 52, and Mrs. Ruth Noble, 35, wife of a baker, were held by officers Tuesday while authorities investigated the shooting of the woman's husband.

Chicagoan Boomed As Running Mate For the President

Delegates Pay Little Attention to Convention's Opening

TO COMBAT REPEAL

Convention Chiefs Seek to Escape With Referendum Plank

CHICAGO.—(AP)—In the quietest of opening sessions the Republican convention submerged its troubles for a moment Tuesday but did not forget them.

As the keynote Senator Dickinson talked to restless delegates and half-filled galleries the convention chiefs were at hotels attempting to beat a new breach over the plank for re submission of the prohibition question.

A boom for General Dawes to replace Vice-President Charles Curtis as President Hoover's running mate spread in every direction and a real problem seemed probable.

The Arkansas delegation in a poll on the floor agreed to yield to Texas on roll call for nomination of Dawes.

A bloc of passive faces lifted from the delegates' section toward the key-note, testified they were preoccupied with other things.

The session adjourned at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon until 11 Wednesday morning.

The administration forces, intent on defeating any attempt at repeal, predicted that the resubmission plank they would draw up would prove acceptable.

Mop Bus Schedule Gives Return Trip

Roundtrip Now Offered to Nashville Each Afternoon

Hope residents going to Nashville on the noon bus of the Missouri Pacific Transportation company used to have to remain overnight unless they returned by another means of communication, but at the suggestion of Hope Chamber of Commerce the company has changed its return schedule to allow a roundtrip bus passage all in one afternoon.

Joe R. Floyd, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday that the Missouri Pacific bus which formerly laid overnight in Nashville now spends the night in Hope.

It leaves Hope for Nashville on the same hour as the old schedule, 12:01 p. m., arriving in Nashville at 1:11. It formerly left Nashville on the return trip at 3:30 the following morning, arriving in Hope at 4:40—but on the new schedule now in effect it leaves Nashville at 2 p. m., returning to Hope at 3:10.

Other schedules on the bus line are unchanged, morning departures and arrivals being undisturbed.

Carl Bailey Urges Intelligent Voting

PERRYVILLE.—The need of the intelligent use of the ballot by every voter of Arkansas as a means of obtaining for the state a clean and efficient government was urged by Carl E. Bailey, prosecuting attorney of the Sixth Judicial District, in an address before a meeting sponsored by the Young Democratic Club of Perry county here.

He thinks they will not have the slightest effect "on things we are all interested in today—economic recovery, jobs, and money in the pocket of the average man."

In an interview Tuesday he lauded the abilities of President Hoover and said he expected to see him re-elected "because he is the man best-fitted for the job."

"First Lady" Has Eventful Life

By NEA Service

Few women have had more interesting careers than Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the nation's "First Lady."

The marriage of Lou Henry, daughter of a Monterey, Calif., banker, and the future president was the culmination of a college romance that began while both were attending Lehigh University at California.

Hoover a young mining engineer, called his proposal from Australia. He returned to California, they were married the following day and the next day they set sail for China.

After traveling widely over the interior, they settled in Tientsin and soon were caught in the Boxer rebellion. While her husband helped plan the defense of the city, Mrs. Hoover organized the women for first aid and hospital work.

Leaving China, they traveled together to remote corners of the world where Mr. Hoover's business as a mining engineer called him—to Russia, India, back to China, Siberia and eventually to London. Before her first child, Herbert, Jr., was four years old, he had been around the world three times.

Soon after the outbreak of the European war in 1914, Mr. Hoover entered upon his task of relief work and Mrs. Hoover and the two children returned to California. About this time Mrs. Hoover began her activities in Girl Scout work, in which she is still very active.

In 1921, when Mr. Hoover became secretary of commerce, they moved to Washington and established a home on S street, where they were neighbors of Woodrow Wilson. They moved from this home to the White House on March 4, 1929.

Fearless tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.

Mixing Tariff With the Tax Bill

WHAT started out to be a budget-saving tax bill seems to have become, by some process of congressional magic, a tariff bill; and it is worth remembering that one may be a devout high-tariff advocate and still deplore this surprising change.

For the tariff, like the poor, is always with us, but the tax bill is something different.

It is an emergency measure. The federal government has found that its expenditures are exceeding its income by many millions of dollars, and its biggest job right now is to make things balance somehow. New sources of income must be found. Until this job is done, nothing else that Congress can do amounts to very much.

That being the case, it would seem to be the part of the ordinary common sense to get the tax bill through as quickly as possible; and it is hard to understand just why Congress should go out of its way to make the job more difficult than it need be.

These tariff sections are not advanced as revenue measures. The most that is said for them is they may add $5,000,000 to Uncle Sam's income, and there is nothing like agreement that they will bring in even that much.

Why, then, in the name of sanity, force them into the tax bill and further complicate an already complicated problem?

It is quite possible that the nation will be better off if these new tariff levies are written into law. That isn't the point. If we need them, let them ride through in a separate bill, entirely disconnected with the tax bill. Just now the tax bill is more important.

Congress has been on trial in the last few months. The country has been watching anxiously to see if that body has enough intelligence and patriotism to enable it to function properly in a great national emergency. Its action in jamming tariff increases into a taxation measure is almost enough to make one think that it has not.

The Wrong Psychology

IT is hard to sympathize very deeply with the war veterans who have been trying to force the railroads to give them free box-car transportation to Washington so that they can tell Congress how much they want a bonus. It is hard, also, to feel that they are doing their cause any good.

Someone ought to tell them that they have been using the wrong kind of psychology. The too-important beggar is apt to defeat his own ends.

You know how it is. Suppose a man has done something for you, so that you are under a moral obligation to him. If he stops you on the street every day to remind you of it, calls you up on the phone every night to insist that you ought to do something for him, sends you letters and telegrams about it and waits for you to come out of your house every morning—well, sooner or later you're pretty apt to tell him to go and chase himself.

This box-car expedition arouses much the same sort of emotion.

Why Gangsters Feel Secure

A Chicago gangster named "Three-Fingered Jack" White was set free the other day when the courts finally dismissed a seven-year-old charge of murdering a policeman; and in that story of unconscionable legal delays there is a pretty fair explanation of gangland's notorious feeling of immunity.

The killing took place in 1925. In 1927 White was convicted and sentenced to life in prison. Then the verdict was reversed by a higher court, and in 1931 he was re-tried, convicted and sentenced to 14 years. Now the case has been reversed again, and this time the charge has been dropped.

White may be perfectly innocent; but when you reflect that we have a legal system which took seven years to settle the matter, you can see how it is that criminals have lost most of their fear of the courts.

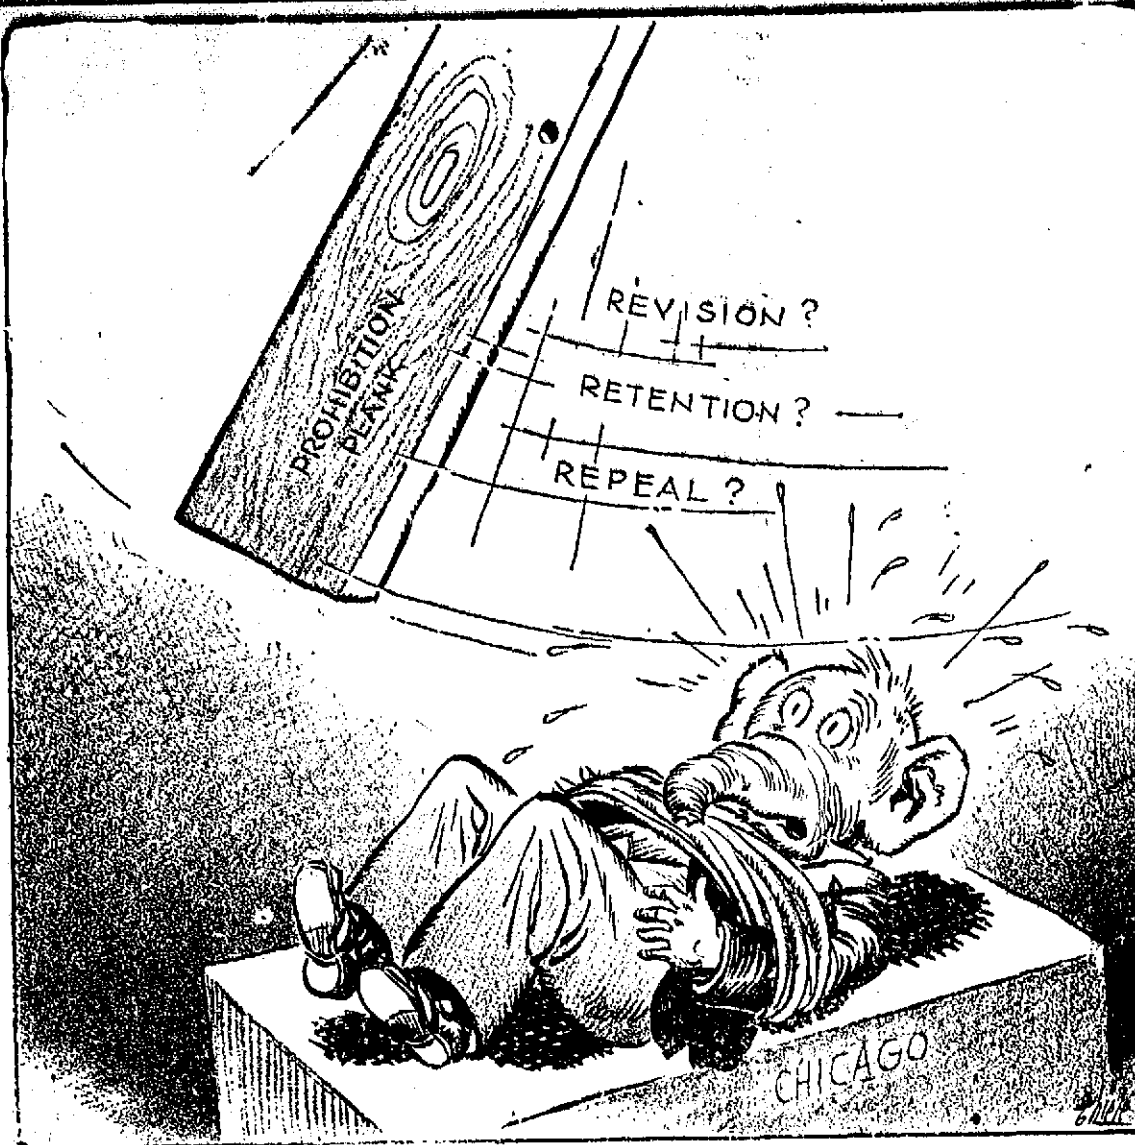

So They Say!

Statesmen alone cannot solve the problems which arise in international affairs. The nations must become accustomed to look to the organized system of the expert report, which gives a just and impartial lead to governments and public opinion and should be regularly accepted just as judicial decisions are accepted as a matter of course.—General Jan Smuts, South Africa leader.

Women frighten me.—Charles Rogers, former movie actor.

Every time the nation has needed to be rescued . . . it has turned to the Democratic party.—Newton D. Baker, Democratic presidential possibility.

Kiesel, Speedster For U. S. Olympiad

Californian Has Twice Equalled 9.5 Record for Century

It became evident weeks ago that Uncle Sam might be able to make room on his Olympic team for Bob Kiesel, providing Bob favored the action, which he didn't. And now, since the Californian's recent 100-yard dash victory over Frank Wyckoff in the world record time of 9.5 seconds, it is imperative that Kiesel be on the team, even if he is an unwilling victim of the draft.

Kiesel doesn't like to run. He has been quoted as saying he'd prefer to watch the Olympics from the stadium, a rather strange statement from an apparently normal college sophomore. If that be true, the country is full of boys who would gladly trade places with him. But Uncle Sam wouldn't benefit greatly by the switch.

According to a sticky flying the rounds, Kiesel doesn't want any of the glory attached to the honor of being the world's "fastest human."

Neither does he crave the friendships his sensational running promotes. His one apparent desire is to please his mother and father, fortunately, they enjoy having him run.

But sprinting was not always a bore to Kiesel. Four years ago he was a 6-year-old high school sophomore, ambitious to learn something of running in competition with collegiate stars trying for places on the 1928 Olympic team. Appearing in the 100-meter dash of the West Coast trials, he was beaten. He noticed that it was his slow start that had caused his defeat. An hour later he returned to the track, got off to a flying start and trimmed his previous rivals in a 200-meter dash. Even then he was bowed as the next Paddock, a possible world's "fastest human."

Twice this season Kiesel has equalled the official world record of 9.5 seconds in the century. His spectacular speed in the California-Stanford dual meet also resulted in a new record of 21.1 seconds in the furlong.

The idea that money makes money brought on speculation and the depression, an economist says. And the idea that nothing will make money keeps the depression here.

CHERRY DIXON, 25 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter whom her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone number, she has been kept from her staid, old-fashioned home to meet him. Her father, however, this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry decides she will have to go to California to see him.

Cherry goes to California, and finds him in a hotel. She tells him that she has come to California to see him. He tells her that he has come to California to see her. They decide to get married. Cherry's father, however, is not pleased with the match. He tells Cherry that she must go back home. Cherry, however, is determined to see Dan. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

CHERRY left Pearson relieve her of the heavy packages. She stepped into the radiator, settling herself with a sigh. "This is awfully kind of you," she said.

Her shoulder ached painfully and she was beginning to realize how tired she was.

"Not at all! Not at all. What in the world have you been doing? Buying out a grocery store?"

She told him about the apartment. "We're going to have our first dinner there tonight. It will be the first meal I've ever cooked. I'm only beginning to learn about housework."

Pearson said he was sure the dinner would be a success. Suddenly with a rush of confidence Cherry found herself telling him all about her trials of the morning. Max Pearson wasn't hard to talk to or frightening though he had read all those books and knew so much. He seemed really interested in the things she was saying.

"That's where we're living," she pointed out the building a few doors ahead. "There on the right. You must come to see us soon. If I weren't such an amateur at cooking I'd ask you to dinner."

"That's a promise I'm going to hold you to. I'd like very much to come."

Pearson's dark eyes flashed in a smile. Cherry thought he seemed utterly sincere and was touched. She was grateful a moment later when he insisted on carrying the packages up the stairs for her.

The second floor hallway was dark. Cherry found the latch, turned her key in it and the door opened.

"The place is a sight," she apologized. "I haven't had time to half finish and things are thrown every way."

Pearson moved the sacks of groceries and Cherry followed in the hallway.

Vital Links

Demand seldom stands on the rooftop and yells for Supply to come into the house.

That's why, every morning thousands of Swift & Company Branch House and Car Route salesmen start out to sell poultry, butter, eggs and meat.

Perhaps these salesmen do not create demand, but they hunt for it with fine tooth combs; they stir it; they dig it up. When they find Demand, they turn it over to farm producers who sell to Swift & Company.

It is to the salesmen's interest to discover new outlets, to expand the old ones, to let the organization know which markets are best. Their incomes, their advancement, depend on how well they sell.

Salesmen are vital links in a human chain that reaches back to the produce plant manager and his helpers. Every man strives to better himself by selling more and by cutting the cost of handling.

The Swift & Company national market was made by digging up demand wherever it exists in the United States, by advertising brands of high quality Swift's Meats, Swift's Premium Milk Fed Chicken, Golden West Fowl, Swift's Brookfield Butter, Eggs, Cheese and many other products. Local gluts and shortages are known, and Swift's products are then distributed to the best advantage. By having the same railroad cars equipped to transport produce or meat; by having the same salesmen sell produce and meat on the same order, important economies have been achieved. Costs are spread more thinly for livestock men and produce men alike.

Unflinching interest that begins with a purchase from a farmer and continues until his produce is in a retail store—and in demand by a consumer—that is Swift & Company service. The charges for it are low. Profits over a period of years, have averaged less than a half cent a pound of all products sold.

Flag Day
Born in the hearts of men, amidst the battle's roar,
You saw the light of day; into the crucible of war.
They poured their sacrifice, and you were lifted high
Above the earth. You heard the freedom cry
Their poems of victory: "No slaves to Tyranny!"
Thus were you born, O Flag of Liberty!
Thus were you born, 'Twas thus you saw the light.
Thus have you lived, Defender of the Right!
Talk Flag of Freedom, Liberty and Love,
Whose gentle message coming from above,
Bids your brave sons to ever watchful be.
That waiting may for'er be free.

Dr. F. D. Henry returned on Monday from a week end visit with relatives in Monroe, La.

Miss Helen McKee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. McKee, Sr. of this city will return home on Thursday from Boulder, Colo., where she has been a student in the state university for the past three years, having received her bachelor of music degree, with violin as her major subject from the department of music of that institution. Miss McKee has received in her field the highest honors ever accorded a student in the university. She was recently presented in recital by Horace Jones, director of the violin department and a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of London. Miss McKee will be a member of the Hope public school faculty for the coming year.

Mrs. Walter Thomas has as guest this week, Miss Ruth Thomas of Columbus.

The wedding of Miss Lillian Willis of Washington, Route 1, and S. A. Roberts of this city was solemnized on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage, with the pastor Dr. J. L. Cannon officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts have taken an apartment with Mrs. Mary Middlebrooks on South Main street. Mr. Roberts is connected with the Bensberg Music company.

Charles Briant is spending this week visiting with Milam Green in Ozan.

Mrs. Ida Boyett and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicks have as house guest, Mrs. Lillie Muller O'Neal of Little Rock.

El Doradoan Writes Star

Editor The Star: I wonder if you have given any study to the proposed constitutional amendment known as the "Quorum Court" amendment? This measure is being sponsored by the Arkansas Industries, Inc., of Little Rock. It appears very innocent.

I wonder if it had occurred to you that this so-called "Home Rule" measure has all the earmarks of having been begat by our old friend, the County Judges Association? If you haven't given the bill any serious study I suggest that you do so.

I shall point out the least objectionable feature first. Observe that the quorum courts of the future shall have the authority to consolidate offices, fix salaries of the elected officials, and limit the number of deputies and likewise fix their salaries.

So far so good. But note the fine Italian hand of the Judges Association. The Quorum Court is to have the advice and assistance of an "Advisory Committee composed of three men of business ability" who shall make a study of the situation and recommend what consolidations and salaries are proper.

Can you for one minute imagine who will make up the personnel of the various "advisory committees" throughout the state? Why the bankers and the scrip shavers of course. And he will also control enough of the justices of the peace to insure the adoption of his program.

By inference it would seem that the farmers of the propose constitutional amendment agree among themselves that the membership of the quorum court would not have sense enough to perform the duties imposed upon them by the very amendment itself so they provided that an extra legal body should be created for that purpose.

In your mind's eye can't you see how the thing would operate? The court house lobby would become the dictators of the county—of every county. While the brothers who constitute the quorum court are busy planting the crops or gathering the crops, or are trying to make a living in other lines of endeavor, the County Judge and his "advisory committee" are busy. And whenever did you see a County Judge with the aid of a "business committee" do anything other than help themselves to everything in sight? Yet your mind dwell on this feature of the amendment for a space and a great shock will be the result thereof.

Now let us view the most objectionable feature of the measure. And in this connection we see the County Judges Association at its best. Read the very first paragraph of this amendment and you will be amazed to learn that it is proposed to divert every single time into the county general fund. At least 50 per cent of all commissions from tax collections paid collectors and county treasurers are from school funds.

You know, Mr. Editor, what happens to funds when they get in reaching distance of a county judge. The county general is peculiarly the county judge's. Put all the money in the county general fund and then just let the schools try and get some of it. The scrip shavers' brigade would absolutely wallow in it. Circuit Judges would immediately mend all their political fences by doubling the expenses of their courts. Even some few county judges scattered here and there throughout the state might be tempted to use a few dollars extra from the county general to insure their re-election. And no one wishes to place temptation in the way of a county judge.

Yours truly,
JESSE J. CRAIG.

or of people could stay the march of the insidious enemy within our gates. Unemployment and suffering were inevitable. To relieve this to the fullest possible measure, the president set up in Washington a national unemployment committee to co-operate with the states both in finding employment and in relieving the needy.

There was a generous response from every state and with the co-operation of the people the president was able to resist rising clamor for a federal dole.

Contrast this picture of a stable social order, the people united in aid to their less fortunate fellows, with the chaos in many countries abroad. There revolution followed revolution. Government after government fell. Battle and bloodshed became an almost every day occurrence.

War Debt Moratorium
This was the foreign situation only a year ago. Drastic action was necessary if the international financial structure was to be preserved. Herbert Hoover took that action. He proposed and the other powers quickly agreed to a one year moratorium on reparations and war debts. Germany was saved from financial chaos that would have involved the entire world.

With this catastrophe averted, the president continued to wage the battle against depression on a hundred fronts in the United States.

Before congress assembled last December, President Hoover prepared for it the most far-reaching rehabilitation and reconstruction program that has ever been designed by any leader in our country under any circumstance.

Foremost in this plan was the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with reserves of two and a half billions of dollars to furnish necessary credit otherwise unobtainable.

As Herbert Hoover poured out his tremendous energies and abilities upon the altar of public service and the welfare of all the people, what of the Democratic opposition?

For two long years they hampered the president at every turn. Through a highly subsidized press bureau, Democratic leaders, Democratic senators and Democratic congressmen sought to distort his every word; to belittle his every effort at human and economic relief; to impugn his every motive; to frustrate his every move. Their orders were to "Smear Hoover."

Thrust at Democrats
Upon his shoulders the anvil chorus of Democracy placed the responsibility for every ill at home and abroad.

As might have been expected, they overplayed their hand. With the nations threatened by its greatest economic crisis, people demanded that partisan politics be submerged in the general welfare. Having no program of their own, they naturally and wisely followed the president who alone had a workable program.

But after they had assisted in partially translating this plan into law, our Democratic friends were no longer able to contain their hopes of victory within their sphere of the good of the nation. On the all essential proposition of balancing the budget, they elected to follow their own course. And with what result?

The Democrats in the house of representatives flouted their own leadership; their tax bill was completely rewritten by the revolting Democratic majority; their economy measure was torn to shreds.

Democratic sponsors call for undue inflation of the national currency. The safety of the country requires the maintenance of the gold standard. The value of the American dollar must be maintained throughout the world.

Nor was this moribund issue the sum total of the products of the master-minds of Democracy. They proposed billions in bond issues for unnecessary and unproductive public works, presumably on the theory that when your budget is unbalanced—when your outgo exceeds your income—you can squander yourself in prosperity.

In their efforts thus to debase the dollar by fiat money and other equally unsound financial schemes, the Democrats stalked forth with the ghost in 1896.

Defends Farm Board
The Farm Board has been the butt of much criticism, the greater part of

Hospital Notes

Dick Huckabee, injured in an automobile accident a week ago, has been removed to his home near Spring Hill from the Josephine hospital.

T. J. Butler, of Lewisville, underwent an operation at the Josephine hospital Tuesday.

which is unjust. We have heard much abuse of the board's operations in stabilization of cotton and wheat by their financing of co-operatives to purchase these commodities, but we have heard very little of the fact that by their entry into the market in February during the crop year of 1930 and again in November of the next crop year, they stemmed the panic which had broken in agricultural prices.

The Farm Board held prices in each of these two crops above world levels to such a degree that the very moderate estimate of the amount realized by the American farmer over and above what they would have realized otherwise is between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

It matters little if the government loses $150,000,000 for the savings it made to homes of farmers throughout this whole land. It was throwing a regiment into the front of the battle to lose, but saved millions.

Directly and indirectly, the federal government has, during the last three years, poured into the agricultural industry nearly $1,000,000,000. As I said before, grievous as his suffering may be, no farmer can deny the undeviating friendship of the Republican party.

Since the beginning of the economic crisis, the Democratic party has shown an utter lack of cohesion on every important issue, and on none has it been more divided than on the tariff. Its leaders have run the scale from free trade to the highest possible protection.

Defends Tariff Wall

With falling prices and depreciated currencies overseas, stands just one bulwark for the salvation of our people. Without the rates of the Hawley-Smoot act of 1930, we would long since have been inundated by a flood of cheaply produced foreign products.

Gentlemen of the opposition cried to high heaven against some of the rates that were being written into that bill. But while they thus wailed, they were not only voluntary, but eager partners in the writing of duties for their local and state industries which in many cases even surpassed what staunch protectionist Republicans believed were necessary.

In the senate alone 1,010 votes were cast by Democratic senators either for increases in rates or against decreases in rates. And the Democrats furnished the margin of votes that were necessary for final enactment of the measure.

Even more recently—in congressional consideration of the budget balancing tax bill—we have had further illustrations of the avidity with which Democrats pursue high tariff rates. They generously supported duties on copper, coal, oil and lumber. And all this after two years of the most bitter and venomous denunciation of the Hawley-Smoot act.

Today partisanship is sublimated before patriotism. And yet to my mind there is no greater patriotism than the employment of every effort toward the restoration of normal conditions. And there can be no more dependable means to this end than the re-election of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States.

"Let sleeping dogs lie"

Why should smokers accept this old-fashioned notion of the cigarette trade?

BY this time you must be pretty well convinced of the fact that other cigarettes do not like to talk about inhaling. And yet—this subject—so "untouchable" in cigarette advertising—is very close to your welfare! For you do inhale—we all do—knowingly or unknowingly, every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

"Let sleeping dogs lie" may be the cigarette trade's answer to us! But what's their answer to you? Do you inhale? Lucky Strike does not avoid this vital question. It meets the issue fairly and squarely—because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Lucky Strike's famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Daniels Negro Is Sentenced Death

Jury Deliberates Only 32 Minutes in Texarkana Rape Case

TEXARKANA. — Freeling Daniels, 34-year-old negro who confessed that he criminally assaulted a 13-year-old white girl, was found guilty and the death penalty was recommended by a jury in Circuit Court Monday after deliberating the case 32 minutes.

National Guardsmen, sent here by Governor Parnell to maintain order after mob violence had been threatened, patrolled the courtroom and grounds. The local unit and one from Hope, totaling 61 men, were reinforced by 21 armed ex-service men. No demonstration was made after the jury read its verdict.

In an attempt to spare Daniels from the chair, the attorneys placed him on the witness stand where he made responses of "I don't remember" to most of the questions asked him by the prosecutor. He declared that he was drunk on the afternoon he committed the assault and remembered nothing about it. He denied he had confessed to the officers or newspaper men.

Sentence was not pronounced by Judge Dexter Bush, who presided, because of the hurry to get the negro away from the crowd. Neither did attorneys make an announcement of plans for an appeal or a new trial.

ment would be approached very thoughtfully.

Believes in Budgeting

The speaker said every department of the state should be audited at regular intervals and that every department must be made to operate within its budget and not depend on the issuance of deficiency proclamations by the governor.

To the farmer he promised the limit of the state's ability to aid and said he would use the influence of the governor's office in securing adoption of pending federal legislation that would extend credit to levee and drainage districts.

He recommended the practice of the employment of outside counsel to represent the various state departments in legal cases and said this service should be performed by the attorney general and his assistants.

"Arkansas people on Arkansas jobs" and a square deal for labor covers Judge E. J. Dyer's labor plank in substance. He said he favors, in principle, security for the aged and infirm.

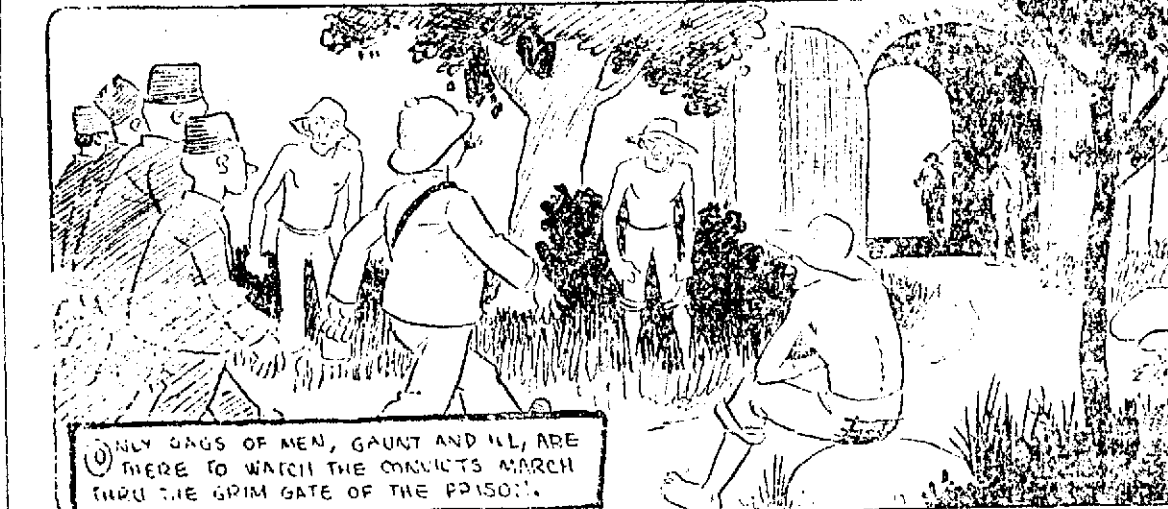

Minority control of government must be the speaker said in explaining that he has fought for a double primary for years and that he has offered the state central committee a plan whereby a state central primary may be held this year if the various candidates are shown in statements favoring such an election.
